City Notes.

—Rev. Dr. Hotchkiss, of Buffalo, formerly of the Rochester University, preached at the Baptist Church last evening. Dr. Hotchkiss is one of the ablest biblical scholars and exponents of Christian theology in the Baptist denomination.

—At the reopening of the M. E. Church, yesterday morning, the Rev. George Loomis, D. D., President of the Allegheny College, Meadville, officiated. His subject was, "The dark hour and the hour of sunrise." After the sermon a collection was taken up in order to liquidate the balance of the debt contracted in enlarging the church building, amounting to some $3000. The effort was so successful that some $300 more than was necessary for that purpose was raised. In the evening he preached again to a crowded house. Dr. Loomis is one of the most able and eloquent pulpits preachers in the country.

—Go and hear Barnabee to-night.

—Rev. received, new styles of Hats, the latest out at Oakland &amp; Hood's, Hatters.

—Note.—The party who took Ye local's heater from this office last Friday, can have his own sharking bad one by returning the same and paying for this notice. Otherwise we must speak further in some future day.

—ATTENTION, CITIZENS' CORPS.—Regular meeting this evening at armory, 9 o'clock, sharp. A full attendance is requested.

—E. G. PATTERSON, President.

—S. O. MURPHY, Secretary.

—INSURANCE.—Solvent insurance companies are at a premium just now, when the great losses by the Boston fire have caused down so many companies that a month ago had every appearance of strength. The attention of our readers is called to the advertisement of F. Bates &amp; Co., which we print elsewhere. It represents fourteen companies, whose aggregate cash surplus, after squaring accounts with Boston is over forty million dollars.

—FIRE.—On Saturday evening, at about a quarter before eight o'clock, a fire broke out in the lower end of the town. It proved to be in the residence of T. H. Gray, Esq., corner of Park and Spruce streets, which was beyond hope of saving before the department arrived on the ground. The nearest water being Church Run, the Col. Drake engaged a tug to get a stream on the fire in about half an hour from the time the alarm was given. The building was a two-story frame dwelling, valued at $2500, on which Mr. G. had $2000 insurance in the Niagara Insurance Company. The fire originated over the kitchen stove, and was extinguished by a defective flue. The furniture was nearly all saved, but in a damaged condition.

THE LAST SENSATION.

The Great Watson Robbery.—One of the most sensational robberies of the season, the House of an Old Citizen Within the City Limits Entered by Thieves, Desperadoes Early in the Evening.

The Family Put in Fear and the House and Safe Ransacked.—A most a Confession.—Terrible Situation of the Captive Family.—The Robbers' Fate Disastrous at their Final Success.—Only About $1,300 Recovered.

On Saturday's issue we gave a brief account of one of the boldest and most daring robberies that has ever been attempted in this country, but owing to the interest of the hour and the difficulty of obtaining correct particulars of the affair it was thought best to omit the details until this morning. Yesterday one of our reporters went to the house of Mr. Watson and interviewed him and the different members of his family, from whom the following facts were elicited. The main points of the case appeared in Saturday's paper, and every thing in relation to the affair that has been yet ascertained appears below:

We only need add that the robbery has all the appearance of being planned and executed by professionals. That was a job put up and thoroughly studied and carried out by a perfectly organized gang of men who become acquainted with the details can for moment doubt. That all trace of the bold operators is lost and no clue to their identity, is another proof that they were thoroughly up to their nefarious business. If only remains for some first-class detective to work up the case, and this requires money. So far, there has been no reward of sufficient amount offered to induce such a man to take hold of it, and an investigation of that fact must not be omitted at this time.

WHERE THE ROBBERY WAS COMMITTED.

Mr. Watson still lives on the place where he has resided for the past thirty-five years. The house is of one story and of substantial construction, standing on the hill about forty rods east of the Pleasantville plank road and about the same distance above Galvan's refinery. It is within the city limits and on what will be an extension of the plank road, the house is a two-story building, occupied by a kitchen and parlor, and two wings, one occupied by the parlor and wood-house, both opening into the kitchen, and the other wing on the opposite side, occupied by a sitting room, bedroom, front hall and office. The sitting room and kitchen are both at the rear of the house, and both have outside doors, while a single door in front opens into the hall. The entrances were made at the doors to the back of the house, and all the rooms in which the affair happened, except the office, are also in the side next the hill. There are no neighbors nearer than twenty rods, and the road past the house is an unfrequented one.

STATEMENT OF CHIEF ROY.

About fifteen minutes to twelve o'clock, on Friday night, the 15th inst., Officer Kane came to my house and stated that a robbery had been committed at Watson's house. I thought it was John Watson's, so I ran down there, and was just entering the gate when Kane told me it was the Watsons' house. We kept on running until we overtook Officer Hardenberg and James Watson, who were driving a team of horses. I found the house in darkness. Upon knocking at the door Mr. John Watson came and unlocked it; his hands were handcuffed, and his feet were bound with wire shackles. He had a lighted candle in his chain. We lighted a candle and found Archie Stewart, Mrs. Watson sitting on the lounge. They were all handcuffed and Archie and Susanna had slided on their feet. The handcuffs were all fastened together. The three were also tied with manila to the legs of the stove. We lit off the old man's iron. My key fitted the lock on Miss Stewart's handcuffs. We unlocked the two pairs of handcuffs and two pairs of legs. The iron was all new; two pairs of legs were of the old style and one pair of legs and the handcuffs were of the new style. I have all the iron in my possession. There are two pairs of handcuffs and three pairs of legs all fastened together. The family could give no intelligent account of the robbery which would lead to their detection. The town has lately been remarkably clear of serious crime. The robbery may have been left by Watson from the sheer night of the robbery was committed.

We found a gag in the house, six inches in length, with a hole in the centre to breathe through, and the ends tied with a string. We also found a new hammer handle, which was used as a club. The family stated that the robbers all had clubs. Most of the party are described as wearing rubber shoes, blue shirts and blue overalls. The family were all blindfolded with strips of cotton band.

We found two pairs of handcuffs and two pairs of legs. The iron was all new; two pairs of legs were of the old style and one pair of legs and the handcuffs were of the new style. I have all the iron in my possession. There are two pairs of handcuffs and three pairs of legs all fastened together. The family could give no intelligent account of the robbery which would lead to their detection. The town has lately been remarkably clear of serious crime. The robbery may have been left by Watson from the sheer night of the robbery was committed.

STATEMENT OF MR. JOHN WATSON.

My name is John Watson. I am no relation that I know of to Jonathan Watson. I was born in Millin county, Pennsylvania, in 1837, and have been in this country for twenty years. My father settled on a farm this side of Pleasantville. In 1853 he purchased Holland Land Co.'s Mill. I purchased this place, of 100 acres, where I now live, in 1855. I am worth about $100,000. I am not in the habit of keeping a large amount of money in the house. I generally deposit my money in the banks. About two weeks ago I collected between twelve and thirteen hundred dollars, and being unwell I did not go to the city to deposit it, but locked it up in the iron safe. About six o'clock on Friday night, the 15th inst., myself, my wife, my step-daughter, Susanna Stewart, and step-son, Archibald Stewart, had just risen from the supper table, in the kitchen when three men entered, each armed with a pistol at my head. My son, Archibald, said "it is robbers." I tried to ward off the pistols which were at my head, and they threatened to blow my brains out if I did not ask them what they wanted, and one of them said "we want your money." I said if that is what you want you can have my money, but I don't want you to abuse me. They then said we won't hurt you if you keep quiet. Then I noticed the other two men in the back of the kitchen, holding my son and daughter. My wife had run down in the cellar. I asked the party what they were going to do, and they said they were going to take it. I told them they might hurt me, but I was out of my health and did not wish to be abused. They then put a pair of handcuffs on my wrist, a pair of iron shackles on my feet, and blindfolded me with a piece of handkerchief similar to this. (Mr. Watson here produced a strip of red cotton cloth, about six inches wide and a yard and a half long, which had evidently formed a part of three pocket handkerchiefs, torn lengthwise into strips. The pattern is red, black and white.) They then requested me to go with them to the safe in the back of the kitchen. I went, and when we got there they wanted me to open the safe. I told them I could not do it without the key, which was locked up in the desk. I told them the key of my desk was in my tobacco box in my left pants pocket. They took it out, and I fortunately it contained some $50 which they appropriated, and they handed me the key to open the desk. I opened the desk, and delivered them the key of the safe. They tried to open the safe, but failing in the attempt, they told me to open it for them, and I did so. I took the money drawer out and handed it to the man. I said "these men, this is all the money I have in the house; take it, and I don't wish you to hurt me." They then took the money in the drawer, consisted altogether of about $1,300, and I then proceeded to the desk, and emptied the contents of the desk. They took me into the adjoining room, where I slept, and emptied the bureau. They then took me to the front hall, and tied me in the large arm-chair, with tarred hemp rope or marlin. Here they left me for almost twenty minutes, and went to bind the other members of the family. They returned, at my request, to remove me to the sitting room, as it was too cold to remain in the hall. They carried me bound to the chair to the sitting room and set me down there. I did not see any more than five men, although I saw six, and I saw the side. I could not see much any way, because I was blindfolded. I could see occasionally out of one eye by lifting the handkerchief. They left me in the parlor alone for almost half an hour, and then brought the other members of the family in. They tied them to the legs of the stove, and afterwards tied me to the stove, telling us that if we moved we would hang by the necks, and if we tried to leave the house the robbers had fire to the house. The robbers had at this time been in the house about an hour and a half as near as I can judge. They did not go any of us or use more violence than was necessary to put on the handcuffs. I did not hear the robbers say anything during their stay; in fact, they were very gentlemanly boys. They asked me if I had any more money besides what they had got. I told them the balance was in the banks. Before the party left the leader asked me to hand him my iron safe, and he took it and unlocked it, and the robbers had just gone, threw off his coat and rushed to the city for the police, a number of whom returned with him at about midnight. When the police arrived we were released from our cuffs and handcuffs, and the robbers had fled, and some of the others broken, but a key which fitted mine was found where it was dropped on the floor. The officers found nothing but the cords and iron were were found with a club, the pieces of handkerchief with which we were blindfolded, and some of the very best quality. On the return of the officers to town Archie accompanied them, and the remainder of the family retired to bed, with the exception of my wife. Throughout the whole of the robbery I remained as calm as if I had been making a deposit, and I gave as much consideration as possible to accomplish their purpose, which appeared to be entirely to secure money, and altogether were very gentlemanly in their conduct and conversation.
